

Enhancing relationships within rural health care communities

UnitedHealthcare is collaborating with providers in rural health care communities across Texas. This alliance has expanded our local commercial product offering to include Charter, which is built for affordability while also supporting local providers in improving access and health care outcomes.

Supported by UnitedHealthcare Charter®

Our Charter offering is designed to help our members foster strong local-based relationships. We support our members in rural communities by providing access to existing local network providers. When seeking specialty care outside the local community, members will access our high-performing Charter providers. These providers are aligned to coordinate care with the designated rural primary care physician (PCP).
